Editor-In-Chief's Report

The Osgoode Society had an excellent year in 2018. We published two books, bringing our total to 107 since the publishing programme began in 1981. Those books serve as testaments to the richness and variety of our nation's legal history and our publishing programme. Our members' book was the first of two volumes of a general history of law in Canada, the first of its kind to be produced in this country. Our other book was The Class Actions Controversy: The Origins and Development of the Ontario Class Proceedings Act, by a very promising young historian Suzanne Chiodo. It is both a deeply researched example of the historian's craft, and a most timely contribution in an era when access of justice is increasingly important.

Our oral history programme continues to benefit from the substantial reorganisation and modernisation carried out by our Oral History Co-Ordinator Patricia McMahon. The entire collection is on our website, and machine searchable, and the interviews will soon be available to be consulted on line. We have already seen an increase in the number of people who know about the programme and use it for research, especially students. We urge our members to broadcast the news widely.

The Society is on solid ground financially, and our membership grew in 2018. In particular we added more young lawyers and students in law and history. On a related matter, our Board membership continues to evolve — more young people, more women, and more ethnic diversity.

Two years ago we inaugurated some initiatives to provide more to members. We launched a newsletter, held a legal history evening for younger members, and in 2018 put on a series of 'legal history evenings' in which historians talk about their subject and research. Speakers in 2018 included our President, Robert Sharpe, on Brian Dickson; Professor Barrington Walker of Queens University on African-Canadians and the law; Professor Heidi Bohaker of the University of Toronto on treaties with indigenous nations; and myself and Professor Philip Girard, Associate Editor of the Osgoode Society, on our history of law in Canada.

Our administrator Amanda Campbell has learned her way around all aspects of a varied job, and her helpfulness, intelligence and good humour are all much appreciated by our members.

As always I feel fortunate to hold the position I do and to work with so many dedicated and talented people. I thank especially our President, the Hon. Robert Sharpe, Associate Editor Philip Girard, Treasurer Bill Ross, Oral History Co-Ordinator Patricia McMahon, and Amanda Campbell. I also thank all members of the Board, who contribute greatly, through their sound counsel, their work on committees, and, in some cases, their operation of our social media and blogging presence.

The Publishing Programme

As noted above, in 2018 the Society published two books. The members book was A History of Law in Canada: Volume 1, Beginnings to 1866, by Philip Girard, Professor of Law, Osgoode Hall Law School, Jim Phillips, Professor of Law, University of Toronto, and Blake Brown, Professor of History, St. Mary's University. This book is the first of 2 volumes, and the first comprehensive history of law in what is now Canada. It begins with Part I, chapters on French, English and Indigenous law at c. 1600. Part 2 examines the period down to 1701 and the signing of the treaty known as the Great Peace of Montreal in 1701, during which New France was established. Part 3 deals with the eighteenth century — Anglo-French conflict, New France until 1760, the establishment and growth of English colonies of settlement, and, throughout, relations with Indigenous peoples and governance of Indigenous nations. Part 4 is devoted to the British North American period, after 1815. Indigenous people are central to the narrative throughout, including after 1815 when their influence waned as their land base was largely lost in central and eastern Canada. Included in Part 4 are the Red River settlement and early British Columbia. Although the background to this history are the well-known major political, military, social and economic transformations of this part of North America, the book is principally a legal history set against and integrated with that background. Court systems, the judiciary, the legal professions, are dealt with in every period and for each of the legal traditions, and the areas of law covered include criminal, family, constitutional, commercial, land, succession, and civil and criminal procedure. This volume combines the remarkable flowering of scholarship on Canadian legal history, so much of it fostered and published by the Osgoode Society over 40 years, with much new research.

Our optional extra for 2018 is Suzanne Chiodo, The Class Actions Controversy: The Origins and Development of the Ontario Class Proceedings Act, published by Irwin Law. The Class Proceedings Act, passed in 1993, represented a major innovation in civil procedure, making it possible to join together thousands of plaintiffs in a single action. Suzanne Chiodo's book is the first to analyse comprehensively the history of the origins of this highly significant legislation. It looks in turn at the origins of representative proceedings in equity, the rise of modern-day class actions around the world (particularly in the US and Québec), and at the debates about, and the passage of, the Ontario legislation. The book presents an in-depth analysis of the political and social influences that shaped this momentous legal change. It explains the importance of the Ontario Law Reform Commission's 1982 Report on Class Actions, and how the Attorney-General's Advisory Committee Report in 1990 pulled together many divergent interests where previous attempts had failed. With the 25th anniversary of the Act upon us, and the Law Commission of Ontario currently reviewing it, this is a most timely contribution to a current debate as well as instructive historical analysis.

A reception was held at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on December 3, 2018 to launch the Society's 2018 books.

In 2019 we will again be publishing two books. Our members' book is Connecting the Dots: The Life of an Academic Lawyer, by Harry Arthurs, published by McGill-Queen's University Press. Harry Arthurs has been a centrally important figure in Canadian legal education for more than fifty years. He came to national prominence as a legal scholar and educator with his seminal writing in the 1960s and 1970s on labour law. In the 1970s he was Dean of Osgoode Hall Law School, and in 1983 he was principally responsible for the seminal report Law and Learning, the most important report on legal education in the past half century. From 1985 to 1992 he was President of York University. He has also served on many government commissions investigating various aspects of labour law, and as the President of the Canadian Civil Liberties

Association. In addition to his labour law work he has written extensively on legal history, the legal profession and legal education, with a special emphasis on the effect of globalization on the latter two topics. This book, more of a ‘life and times’ than an autobiography, is an account of Arthurs’ intellectual trajectory, the memoir of a person who has lived his professional life to the full and rendered his country much meritorious service. It covers all aspects of his career, a compendium of trials, tribulations and triumphs, with frankness, perspicacity, and humour. Readers will learn about the ‘black arts’ of academic administration as well as why Arthurs can call himself a ‘useful idiot!’

Our optional extra for 2019 is Wounded Feelings: Litigating Emotions in Quebec, 1870-1950, by Eric Reiter, Professor of History at Concordia University, published with the University of Toronto Press. The book is based on court cases involving defamation, breach of promise of marriage, personality rights, and religious beliefs — all areas of ‘emotion’ which lead to legal action. It integrates the legal history — how Quebec law, lawyers and judges dealt with legal claims relating to the emotions — with how and why individuals brought such cases to the courts. The detailed legal analysis is enriched throughout by analyses of the social, economic and political contexts underlying individual litigation. The Osgoode Society is delighted to publish another book about the civil law, and one that breaks new ground within such writing by examining the emotion and the personal in the law books and the courtroom.

A MEMBERSHIP FORM for 2019 and a book order form are in this report. Or you can join and/or buy books online, osgoodesociety.ca.

A full list of all our previously published books is on our website, osgoodesociety.ca. That list also appears in every Osgoode Society volume.

Awards

The Society offers or administers a number of awards.

R. ROY MCMURTRY FELLOWSHIP

In 2017 we awarded the ninth R. Roy McMurtry Fellowship in Canadian Legal History. This fellowship was created on the occasion of the retirement as Chief Justice of Ontario of the Hon. R. Roy McMurtry. It honours the contribution to Canadian legal history of the founder of the Osgoode Society for Canadian Legal History and its current President. The fellowship was established by Chief Justice McMurtry's friends and colleagues, and endowed by private donations and the Law Foundation of Ontario. The fellowship is to support graduate (preferably doctoral) students or those with a recently completed doctorate, to conduct research in Canadian legal history, for one year.

In 2018 we had co-winners. One was Chandra Murdoch, a History Ph.D. student at the University of Toronto, who is working on the early history of the Indian Act of 1876, and in particular at the increasing power of the Indian agents. The other co-winner is Dan Murdoch, a History Ph.D. student at York University, who is working on the influence of law and capitalism on Indigenous families' life courses in the Red River Valley, 1818-1930.

PETER OLIVER PRIZE

The Peter Oliver Prize in Canadian Legal History is named for the Society's founding editor-in-chief, and awarded annually for published work in Canadian legal history written by a student. Students in any discipline and at any stage of their careers are eligible.

The 2018 winner was David Sandimerski for 'Tension and Reconciliation in Canadian Contract Law Casebooks,' published in Osgoode Hall Law Journal, Vol. 54, 2017.

JOHN T. SAYWELL PRIZE FOR CANADIAN CONSTITUTIONAL LEGAL HISTORY

This prize, established through the generosity of Professor Saywell's son John MacIntosh and in recognition of Professor Saywell's life-long commitment to the highest standards of scholarship in Canadian history and law, is given bi-annually to the best new book in Canadian legal history, broadly defined, that makes an important contribution to an understanding of the constitution and/or federalism. In 2018 the Saywell Prize was awarded to Peter Russell, Professor Emeritus, University of Toronto, for Canada's Odyssey: A Country Based on Incomplete Conquests (University of Toronto Press, 2017)

STUDENT BOOK AWARDS

The Society in co-operation with Canadian law schools offers an annual book award to a graduating student deemed to have done excellent work in legal history. The Society provides one book from its back list and a current membership, including the annual publication, to such a student in each participating Canadian Law School.

THEODOR KERZNER Q.C. RESEARCH GRANTS

The Society provides research grants to people undertaking scholarly research into any aspect of Canadian legal history. Faculty and graduate students at Universities are eligible, as are independent scholars. These grants, which are unlikely to exceed $3,000 per person, are given to defray research expenses connected with any project in any field of Canadian legal history. The Theodor Kerzner Q.C. Research Grants programme was created in 2016 to honour the memory of Theodor (Ted) Kerzner, Q.C. a long-time member of the Osgoode Society, a very generous benefactor of the Society, and a lawyer who took a keen interest in legal education and legal scholarship in many fields, especially legal history

There are no application forms. Applicants should describe their project and include a budget and a curriculum vitae. The deadline for requests to be considered at our spring Board meeting is March 31st. The deadline for our September Board meeting is August 31st. Money granted in a calendar year needs to be spent in the same calendar year. Thus grants made in the spring must ordinarily be expended the same year. Grants made in September can be for either the same calendar year, or the following one, but not both.

Successful applicants undertake to acknowledge the support of the Theodor Kerzner Q.C. Research Grants Programme in any publications which result, in whole or in part, from a Theodor Kerzner Q.C. Research Grant.

In 2018 two grants were made under this programme. Desireé Valadares, a Canadian graduate student at the University of California, Berkeley, is researching wartime internment of Japanese-Canadians. Virginia Torrie and Thomas Telfer, Professors at the University of Manitoba and Western University, are researching various aspects of insolvency and corporate reorganization law in Canadian history.

Oral History

The Society's Oral History Program is a unique and invaluable source of information on all aspects of Canada's legal past. The interviews have been used extensively in scholarly research and the program has gained a wide reputation for the quality and scope of its work. Over the years, several projects have been funded by law firms, judges' associations, and the like. We are pleased to discuss possible by arrangements with outside organisations and currently have such an arrangement with the Association of Ontario Judges and with Speaking from Experience.

The number of legal professionals interviewed through the programme since 1979 now totals more than 630, with approximately 100,000 pages of transcript. Completed interviews are sent to the Archives of Ontario, but are also available from the Osgoode Society for consultation subject to access conditions. A complete, searchable listing of all interviews conducted for the Osgoode Society oral history program, is available on our website: <https://www.osgoodesociety.ca/oral-history/>.

We continue to devote a good deal of time to reorganising and streamlining our collection and administrative processes. Looking forward, we are working to improve access to oral history transcripts by making copies available on the Society's website. In 2018, the oral history program made its debut on Twitter (@OSOralHistory) as a way to raise awareness of the collection and its contents.

In 2018, five interviews were completed. The interviewees were:

George Beatty
Ian Binnie
Frank Jacobucci
Robert Kanatewat
Sidney Linden

In 2018, nine interviews were in progress. The interviewees are:

Philip Epstein
Donna Hackett
Susan Lang
Janet Minor
Laurie Pawlitz
John Rosen
Paul Schabas
David Stone
George Thomson

Most interviews are conducted by people who are hired for the specific purpose of conducting an interview, but the assistance of volunteer interviewers remains important.

If you wish to conduct an interview on a volunteer basis, please contact the Coordinator of the Oral History Program, Patricia McMahon. She can be reached via email at patricia.mcmahon@osgoodesociety.ca.

Finally, the Osgoode Society wishes to acknowledge Cynthia Smith, who has made an enormous contribution to the Society's oral history program. Without Cynthia's work, the collection would not be what it is today. Cynthia has decided to retire from conducting oral history interviews, and we wish her the very best.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Members of The Osgoode Society for Canadian Legal History:

Report on the Audit of the Financial Statements

Qualified Opinion

We have audited the financial statements of The Osgoode Society for Canadian Legal History (the 'Society'), which comprise the statement of financial position as at December 31, 2018, and the statements of operations, changes in net assets and cash flows for the year then ended, and notes to the financial statements, including a summary of significant accounting policies.

In our opinion, except for the effects of the matter described in the Basis for Qualified Opinion section of our report, the accompanying financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Society as at December 31, 2018, and its financial performance and its cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with Canadian Accounting Standards for Not-for-Profit Organizations.

Basis for Qualified Opinion

As with many charitable organizations, the Society derives revenue from donations, the completeness of which is not susceptible to satisfactory audit verification. Accordingly, our verification of donations for the years ended December 31, 2018 and December 31, 2017 was limited to the amounts recorded in the records of the Society. We were not able to determine whether any adjustments might be necessary to donations, operations for the year, assets and net assets.

We conducted our audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are independent of the Society in accordance with the ethical requirements that are relevant to our audit of the financial statements in Canada, and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Other Information

Management is responsible for the other information. The other information comprises of the Annual Report for The Osgoode Society for Canadian Legal History, but does not include the financial statements and our auditors' report thereon. The Annual Report is expected to be made available to us after the date of this auditors' report.

Our opinion on the financial statements does not cover the other information and we will not express any form of assurance conclusion thereon.

In connection with our audit of the financial statements, our responsibility is to read the other information and, in doing so, consider whether the other information is materially inconsistent with the financial statements or our knowledge obtained in the audit, or otherwise appears to be materially misstated.

When we read the Annual Report, if we conclude that there is a material misstatement therein, we are required to communicate the matter to those charged with governance.

Responsibilities of Management and Those Charged with Governance for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with Canadian Standards for Not-for-Profit Organizations, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Society's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Society or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance are responsible for overseeing the Society's financial reporting process.

Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditors' report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Society's internal control.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
- Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Society's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditors' report to the related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditors' report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Society to cease to continue as a going concern.
- Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

THE OSGOODE SOCIETY FOR CANADIAN LEGAL HISTORY

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

PURPOSE OF THE ORGANIZATION

The Society was formed to study and promote public interest in the history of the law, the legal profession and the judiciary in Ontario and elsewhere in Canada and to stimulate research and publication on these subjects.

The Society meets these objectives by publishing books on Canadian legal history, sponsoring the collection of oral histories from individuals within the legal community, maintaining a website devoted to Canadian legal history, providing research and publication grants, and sponsoring and hosting legal history seminars.

The Society is incorporated, without share capital, under Letters Patent. The Society has been granted tax exempt status as a charitable organization under the Income Tax Act of Canada (the "Act"). In order to maintain the exempt status, the Society must meet certain requirements within the Act. In the opinion of management, these requirements have been met.

1. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

These financial statements were prepared in accordance with Canadian Accounting Standards for Not-for-Profit Organizations and are in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles.

(a) Fund accounting

The Association uses fund accounting. General activities are reflected in the General Fund.

(b) Investments

Investments consist of Guaranteed Investment Certificates. Investments are recorded at cost and interest is recorded as earned.

(c) Publication inventory

Inventory, which consists of books available for sale, is carried at the lower of cost and net realizable value, as measured using the specific identification method.

(d) Capital assets

Capital assets are recorded at cost. Amortization is provided annually at rates calculated to write off the assets over their estimated useful lives as follows:

Office equipment	20% declining balance

(e) Financial instruments

The Society's financial instruments are comprised of cash, investments, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities, and deferred revenue.

Cash, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities, and deferred revenue are reported at the fair value at the balance sheet date, which equates to the carrying value.

1. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES, continued

(f) Revenue recognition

Revenue is recognized when it is received or receivable, if the amount can be reasonably estimated and if collection is reasonably assured. Deferred revenue represents the portion of grants not yet expended as required.

Membership fees are recognized as revenue when application for membership is received. Each member is entitled to receive the 'membership book' of the year as part of their membership fee.

Grants are recognized as revenue in the period to which they relate, or when costs for which the funds were granted are expensed.

Book sales are recognized as revenue when the books are shipped.

Fundraising is recognized as revenue when received.

Donations are recognized as revenue when received.

Investment income is recognized as revenue in period in which it is earned.

(g) Cash and cash equivalents

The Society considers deposits in banks, including funds in savings accounts, and investments in certificates of deposit as cash and cash equivalents.

(h) Contributed goods and services

Volunteers contribute numerous hours each year to assist the Society in carrying out its activities. The fair value of the contributed services cannot be reasonably estimated and are not recognized in the financial statements.

The Law Society of Upper Canada provides office services to the Society, including rent, telephone and computer assistance, the fair market value of which is not readily available. As such, the value recorded is the amount actually paid.

(i) Allocation of expenses

Staffing costs for general support, including office administration and editorial support are allocated to functional areas disclosed in the statement of operations based on an estimate of the percentage of time spent by personnel on activities related to each function.

2. THEODOR KERZNER, Q.C. FUND

The Theodor Kerzner, Q.C. Fund was established by the Board of Directors in 2015, from funds donated by the Estate of Theodor Kerzner. This fund is intended to provide financing for projects to augment the Society's operations.

For ease and efficiency of managing the investments, these funds have been commingled with the Society's investments (See Note 6). The Society is entitled to use the investment income from the Theodor Kerzner, Q.C. Fund for its operations. For fiscal 2018, investment income of $814 (2017 - $68) was retained in the Theodor Kerzner, Q.C. Fund.

3. PETER OLIVER MEMORIAL STUDENT FUND

The Peter Oliver Memorial Student Fund was created in 2006 to provide an annual award for published work by a student, or students, in the field of Canadian legal history. The award includes a copy of the current year's publication, a copy of the Peter Oliver Essay volume and any five books from the back publications list.

For ease and efficiency of managing the investments, these funds have been commingled with the Society's investments (See Note 6). The Society is entitled to use the investment income from the Peter Oliver Memorial Student Fund for its operations. For fiscal 2018, investment income of $53 (2017 - $13) was retained in the Peter Oliver Memorial Student Fund.

4. JOHN T. SAYWELL PRIZE FUND

The John T. Saywell Prize for Canadian Constitutional Legal History ("Saywell Prize") was created in 2008. An award of $2,000 is normally granted bi-annually to the author of the best new book in Canadian legal history that makes an important contribution to an understanding of the constitution and or federalism. The prize is to be funded from investment income on a $25,000 endowment and related contributions.

The $25,000 contribution received in 2008 for the Saywell Endowment Fund is subject to externally imposed restrictions stipulating that the resource is to be maintained permanently. Investment income on this balance is restricted to fund the John T. Saywell Prize for Canadian Constitutional Legal History and is included in revenue of the John T. Saywell Prize Fund.

The funds for the Saywell Prize and Saywell Endowment are invested in Guaranteed Investment Certificates, maturing August 19, 2019, earning interest at 0.65%.

5. HONOURABLE R. ROY MCMURTRY LEGAL HISTORY FELLOWSHIP FUND

The Honourable R. Roy McMurtry Legal History Fellowship (the "McMurtry Fellowship") was established in 2006 to enable students and post-doctoral candidates in Canadian legal history to undertake or continue their studies, writing and research in the field. Funds held in the McMurtry Fellowship are restricted for the purpose of meeting the commitments of the Fellowship. Currently the Fellowship is $16,000 per annum, paid to recipients over two years.

Investment income earned on the assets represents restricted contributions to the Fellowship.

During the year the Directors elected to pay $8,000 of the $16,000 award from the McMurtry Fellowship, with the balance of $8,000 paid from the General Fund.

Under the terms of an Investment Services Agreement between Osgoode and the Law Society of Upper Canada ("LSUC"), LSUC manages the investments related to the McMurtry Fellowship.

Assets of the McMurtry Fellowship are held in a savings account, earning interest at prime less 2% per annum.

6. INVESTMENTS

Investments are carried at cost plus interest accrued to the balance sheet date.

Investments for the General Fund, Theodor Kerzner, Q.C. Fund and Peter Oliver Memorial Student Fund are commingled for ease of management. These investments consist of Guaranteed Investment Certificates, maturing at varying times between January 2019 and January 2020, earning rates of interest between 0.9% and 1.5%.

11. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS, continued

(a) Interest Rate Risk Exposure

Exposure to the risk of changes in market interest rates relates to the Society's cash and investment balances. The Society manages this risk by investing in fixed rate investment instruments.

(b) Credit Risk Exposure

Credit risk on the financial assets of the Society equates to the carrying amount. The Society carries receivables from members of the organization and recognized third parties. Accounts receivable balances are monitored on a regular basis to minimize exposure to bad debt. Credit risk associated with cash and investments is limited to the risk of default by the counter party, with a maximum exposure equal to the carrying amount of these assets.
